TREASURER'S MESSAGE

As the world went into lockdown and COVID-19 cases multiplied in cities, the advantages of living and working in regional New South Wales (NSW) have never been clearer.

The 2019-20 period will go down in history as one of the toughest for regional NSW.

The worst drought on record was followed by the worst bushfire catastrophe on record. Then, when the drought broke, the rains brought localised flooding.

Of course, all of that was hard enough – but then came a global pandemic, which apart from the health threat, has cost thousands of people their jobs and livelihoods, and brought new challenges for producers facing disrupted supply chains and subdued demand.

Throughout this period the people of regional and rural NSW have shown their resilience.

Just as the drought has broken over much of the state, and rain has brought nature roaring back to life, so too will our regional communities rebound.

As they do, the 2020-21 NSW Budget will help them every step of the way, with funding to keep rebuilding communities still recovering from natural disasters, major investments to generate jobs, and additional mental health services to ease the strain of an impossibly difficult year.

We will continue to ensure our regional and rural residents have access to vital, world class services, and across the regions, projects big and small are laying the foundations for future growth, from schools and hospitals to national highways, metro-quality internet, and regional rail.

But this Budget is about more than just rebuilding in our regions and responding to COVID-19. We are taking the opportunity to make regional NSW the powerhouse of our state's economic future, and never has that future looked brighter.

This Budget continues to support the industries that have made our regions so successful for so many years, and invests to create more opportunities to take our local produce to the world like never before.

We are building new industrial capacity, with precincts in Parkes, Wagga Wagga, and the Hunter, tailor-made to ensure local industries will thrive long into the future.

And we will continue to make regional and rural NSW the renewable energy powerhouse of Australia, getting ahead of the curve to secure clean, cheap energy future for our state.

The coming months and years will be critical in securing a strong recovery for regional NSW. This Budget holds nothing back, as we move on from the year that was, and look with hope to the opportunities that lie ahead.

NSW Treasurer

OVERVIEW

The 2020-21 NSW Budget reflects the NSW Government's clear focus on supporting our regions through recovery, reform and a return to prosperity after a year of unprecedented challenges. There has never been a more important time to make sure that our regional communities impacted by drought, bushfires, floods and COVID-19 are getting the help they need to rebuild and recover.

The NSW Government is focused on supporting our regional businesses, including manufacturing, resource and agricultural sectors, to recover quickly and return to growth, while also positioning regional economies to further specialise in innovation and technology-focused industries. Our investment in regional NSW will:

- Support economic recovery for the communities and businesses of regional NSW.
- Provide vital assistance for communities following the drought and 2019-20 summer bushfires.
- Reinforce a targeted approach to drought resilience and water security.
- Improve road and rail connections between regions and cities to enable faster movement of goods and improve access for visitors.
- Assist businesses to expand, establish, invest and create more jobs in the regions.
- Protect and improve the environment and local character of NSW's regional communities.

Highlights of the NSW Government's new and existing key regional investments are included in this document.

DROUGHT RELIEF

From mid-2017 to 2020, NSW experienced one of the worst droughts on record which continues to cast a long shadow across our regions. As of October 2020, 12 per cent of the State still remains in drought, presenting significant challenges to the agriculture sector across the State. The NSW Government is standing by our farmers, their families and rural communities, and has committed approximately $4.5 billion in drought assistance and water security support.

Drought assistance in NSW provides ongoing support to farmers, while helping to accelerate recovery for producers who have seen conditions improve. Existing NSW Government support includes:

- $1 billion for the Farm Innovation Fund to provide concessional loans and provide greater drought resilience.

- $1 billion for the Safe and Secure Water Program to provide safe, secure and sustainable water and wastewater services to regional NSW.
- $170 million for the Drought Stimulus Package to fund shovel-ready infrastructure projects.
- Waiving of heavy vehicle charges for eligible primary producers.
- Deferral or extended installment plans for drought-affected customers who have difficulty meeting their payroll tax obligations.
- Waiving of Local Land Services rates and other Government charges.

The NSW Government has provided $310 million in additional funding since the 2019-20 Half-Yearly Review. This includes:

- $116 million to continue the Drought Transport Subsidy.
- $99 million in assistance for eligible primary producers, including waiving Local Land Services rates, bee site permits, Western Lands lease rent, wild dog fence rates and meeting vehicle registration costs.
- $28.5 million to continue existing water license fee waivers for stock, domestic, general and high security water users.
- Continuing health and wellbeing programs, including the Farmgate Counselors program, Aboriginal wellbeing services and Royal Flying Doctors Far West Drought Support programs.

REBUILDING COMMUNITIES AFFECTED BY BUSHFIRES

The NSW Government is providing vital assistance to rebuild communities, committing $4.4 billion in bushfire recovery support. This includes the restoration and future-proofing of assets against natural disasters, while also providing important stimulus and resilience to communities impacted by the 2019-20 bushfires.

The NSW Government has created a $1 billion Bushfire Infrastructure Package to clean-up and repair roads, bridges, schools and other state assets affected by the 2019-20 bushfires. The package will also be used to repair fencing destroyed by bushfire and upgrade critical communication networks used by emergency service workers. Further initiatives supported by the Bushfire Infrastructure Package include:

- $217 million to continue the rollout of critical communications infrastructure.
- $190 million for local infrastructure projects and additional agricultural research stations to stimulate local economies and improve the resilience of regional communities and industries.
- $100 million to replace, repair and build resilience in NSW Government infrastructure impacted by the 2019-20 bushfires.
- $46 million to the forestry industry for urgent infrastructure repairs, nursery expansions and replanting the forest.

Further support is being provided to local communities, including:

- $540 million committed in partnership with the Commonwealth to drive economic recovery under the Bushfire Local Economic Recovery Fund, including establishing a $250 million grants program for regional areas.

- $335 million to support more than 20,000 businesses affected by bushfires through small business recovery and support grants.
- $209 million to re-establish boundary fences adjoining Crown Land destroyed in the bushfires.
- $110 million to support 1,800 farmers through Primary Producer Recovery Grants.
- $10 million to provide more than 200 recovery pods in temporary accommodation for families who have lost their homes. Over 8,000 people have also been provided with emergency accommodation since November 2019.

FOSTERING ECONOMIC GROWTH AND PROSPERITY

The NSW Government has allocated funding into health and economic stimulus measures designed to support the people, businesses and communities of regional NSW.

- A $1.8 billion commitment for regional NSW from the $3 billion Jobs and Infrastructure Acceleration Fund to accelerate economic recovery and create new jobs. This includes:
 - $300 million to support the accelerated delivery of the $500 million Fixing Country Bridges program, to better connect regional and rural communities.
 - $198.8 million for businesses in regional NSW from the Small Business Support Fund ensuring businesses receive the support they need to keep operating.

- $72.1 million in 2020-21 (as part of a $673.3 million project) for the Tweed Hospital and Integrated Ambulatory Services Redevelopment.
- $10.1 million in 2020-21 (as part of a $698.6 million project) for the new Shellharbour Hospital (State and Federal funded).
- New primary schools at Googong and Murrumbateman.
- An additional $300 million to recharge the Regional Growth Fund (bringing the total to $2 billion) to support growing regional centres, activate local economies and improve services.
- $50 million for Resources for Regions Round 7, supporting the ongoing prosperity of mining communities in regional NSW by providing economic opportunities, improved local amenities and positive social outcomes.

The NSW Government is investing $4.2 billion through the Snowy Hydro Legacy Fund to build transformational infrastructure across regional NSW. Several projects are now underway, including:

- $185.4 million for the Parkes Special Activation Precinct, delivering vital infrastructure including roads, water and wastewater connections to the precinct.
- $100 million for the Gig State Project to deliver a metro-level internet service to regional communities and businesses.
- $20.6 million to progress early works for the Wagga Wagga Special Activation Precinct.
